

Paschen to Go Before Cook Co. Grand Jury

To Answer Questions On Welfare Fund; to Appear Voluntarily

CHICAGO (U) — Herbert C. Paschen, Democratic candidate for Illinois governor, was to appear voluntarily before a grand jury today to answer questions about a "welfare fund."

The fund was uncovered in the office of the Cook County Chicago treasurer, a post now held by Paschen. Being investigated by the jury were charges that banks securing county funds for deposit kicked into the fund and that the money was used for political purposes.

Meanwhile, a decision was expected shortly from Paschen, possibly today, about whether he would remain in the state's gubernatorial race or withdraw voluntarily.

Report Pressure Applied

Party bigwigs, topped by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, reportedly were applying pressure to get Paschen off the ballot so a new candidate could be selected.

They evidently fear Paschen's trouble could hurt Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate, in his own state. They also have shown concern over the Paschen investigation ruining the party's opportunity of reaping from the Orville E. Hodge embezzlement scandal in Republican ranks.

Insists Actions Proper

The Democratic candidate for governor, who is pitted against Republican Gov. William Stratton in the November election, insisted his actions have been proper and ethical and that the welfare fund has been "misrepresented." He also has denied there has been any urging by Daley or other party leaders for him to step down from the top of the party's state ticket.

Daley planned conferences with state leaders about Paschen, but the final decision was Paschen's for he cannot be forced from the ticket if he refuses to drop out of the race voluntarily.

Paschen failed to show up Monday night at a Democratic dinner and rally in Havana. Officials said Paschen called and said "the press of affairs" in Chicago made it impossible for him to attend the Havana affair.

At Least 4 Killed In Montreal Blast

MONTREAL (U) — At least 4 persons were killed and 15 injured today, when fumes from a broken gas main exploded and wrecked a two-story four-family apartment house.

The dead were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Alex Anderson, 68 and 63, and their two grandchildren, Lloyd Lyons, 7, and his sister Lorna, 2.

Three other persons were reported missing in the blast, which demolished three of the four apartments instantly and set fire to the building, destroying it completely.

Democratic Booklet Makes Official Issue Of President's Health

WASHINGTON (U) — The Democratic Party is making an official issue of President Eisenhower's health in the election campaign.

The Democratic National Committee is mailing 100,000 copies of a 110-page "fact" booklet which quotes Mr. Eisenhower himself and Army medical regulations on questions of health.

The pamphlet says Mr. Eisenhower made his health an issue in the presidential election campaign when he said, on Jan. 19, "It would be idle to pretend that my health can be wholly restored to the excellent state in which the doctors believed it to be 'prior to his September heart attack. My future life must be carefully regulated to avoid excessive fatigue.'"

The booklet — titled "The 1956 Democratic Fact Book" — also declares Mr. Eisenhower was "a part-time president even before his heart attack or his June 9 intestinal operation."

Corn Acreage Disposal Deadline Set for Aug. 31

Farmers who have signed up for the 1956 Soil Bank Acreage Reserve Program now have through August 31, 1956, to dispose of crops on designated acreages in order to comply with their agreements, according to Herman Driskell, chairman of the local ASC office.

This, explained Mr. Driskell, permits farms who did not get sufficient corn acreage disposed of by the previous deadline of August 3 for corn, to get in compliance now.

The August 31 date also applies to soybeans and other similar crops now growing on the designated area. However, crops like normal grass and legume hays may be left standing.

At the time this extension in disposition date has been given, the department has issued a warning concerning the failure of farmers to live up to their agreements. It is specifically pointed out that no payment will be made if a farmer fails to dispose of his crops by required dates. In addition, farmers will be subject to a civil penalty of 50 per cent of the payment which would have been made if they harvest or graze the designated acreage.

It is further provided that producers will not be allowed to terminate their agreement.

"Under these circumstances," said Mr. Driskell, "we suggest that any farmers who feel that his compliance is questionable, should immediately contact the county office relative to his possible problems."

Dies After Quiz In Paducah's Bombing Death

Reuben Crews Found Dead; Was Suitor of Band Leader's Wife

HUNTINGDON, Tenn. (U) — An autopsy was performed today on the body of Reuben Crews, an atomic physicist who died shortly after he was questioned about the bombing death of a Paducah, Ky., band leader.

Crews, 38, had been a suitor of the former Dorothy Mitchell, bride of Vivian Chaudet, who was killed Saturday when a homemade bomb exploded in his automobile.

Crews died in his sleep Saturday while visiting his mother, Mrs. Lorena Lyles Crews.

Authorities said Crews was subject to heart seizures and theorized this might have caused his death. However, Dr. Roy Douglas, who performed the autopsy, said he had examined Crews several times and "if he had heart trouble, I didn't know it."

Douglas said Paducah, Ky., police officials took vital organs of Crews' body for chemical analysis.

A week before Chaudet was killed he had secretly married Miss Mitchell.

Mrs. Chaudet said Crews had been in love with her and was "deeply hurt" by her marriage.

"When we talked to Crews he seemed very nervous and upset," Police Capt. Lyne Mallory of Paducah said. "He said he had been very fond of Miss Mitchell. We have found that she had been seeing about four men before her marriage and we intend questioning them."

Crews, a Navy veteran, graduated from Murray State College. He had been employed at the Paducah atomic plant more than a year.

Stevenson and Party Take Off For Portland

Nominee Says His Santa Fe Meeting A Great Success

By TOM NELSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
SANTA FE, N. M. (U) — Adlai E. Stevenson, "exhilarated" by talks with Democratic leaders here, today took his caravan of campaign trouble-shooters into the Pacific Northwest.

The Stevenson plane left Santa Fe and landed for fuel 15 minutes later at Albuquerque. The plane then took off for Portland, Ore.

Stevenson told reporters at Albuquerque the Santa Fe meeting was "a great success" and "confirmed our confidence in a Democratic victory."

A reporter noted that six of the seven states at the meeting went Republican in 1952.

"We've had the impression there is a very sharp change in most of these states," Stevenson replied.

A reporter asked: "What kind of a change?"

"Toward the Democrats, natch," Stevenson said.

From Portland, the barnstormers were scheduled to motor to Bonneville, Wash., dam, eating a box lunch en route, and then to Vancouver for a five-state party meeting.

Sources in the Stevenson camp said one topic that would come up was the chances of two Democratic senators from the Northwest to win re-election — Wayne Morse of Oregon and Warren Magnuson of Washington. Morse and Magnuson were named co-chairmen on the meeting.

Fox was in hot water several times this year for committing blunders on the big money giveaway show. During one crucial moment on the show, he unintentionally whispered part of an answer to a contestant.

The 36-year-old Storey, who is from Kalamazoo, Mich., has worked previously as an announcer in Buffalo, N. Y., and Grand Rapids, Mich. Two years ago, he emceed a CBS-TV offering, "What do you have in common."

The 250-pound, six-foot pediatric nurse, Miss Virginia B. Jaspers, 33, said she would give the infants a "good shaking" because "kids sometimes get on my nerves."

"She has tremendous hands and probably doesn't know her own strength," Police Chief Francis V. McManus said.

Egypt Decision to Talk Suez Row Hailed by Dulles

Eisenhower to Depart Today For Capital

President Anxious To Confer With GOP Chairman Len Hall

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (U) — President Eisenhower, feeling fit and relaxed after a four-day golfing vacation here, returns to Washington today to map his political campaign against the Democrats.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty surprised correspondents Monday by announcing that the President and his party would leave today. Their plane will arrive in Washington about 8:30 p. m. (EDT).

It was generally believed the President and Mrs. Eisenhower would remain at this golfer's paradise through Wednesday. But sources close to the presidential family revealed two basic reasons for the early departure.

They were: 1. It was foggy and overcast along the Monterey Peninsula Monday, leaving Mrs. Eisenhower somewhat less than enthusiastic about staying longer; and 2. Mr. Eisenhower is anxious to huddle with GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall on plans to open his campaign for re-election Sept. 15.

At a press briefing Monday, Hagerty said the President's campaign plans would be announced "soon" after his return to the White House. This was taken to mean sometime next week because the President plans to drive to his Gettysburg farm on Friday for the weekend.

Charge Use of 'Hell Ship' in Deportations

Congressman Orders Probe of Riotings By Mexican Wetbacks

By ROBERT F. COLL
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (U) — Rep. Robert H. Mollohan (D-W.Va.) today ordered a staff investigation of reported rioting aboard an Immigration Service "hell ship" deporting Mexican wetbacks.

Mollohan, reached by the United Press at Elkins, W. Va., said he wants additional information on the "deplorable conditions" aboard the Mexican flag vessel Mercurio before calling a full-scale investigation by his House Government Operations subcommittee.

But he said a previous congressional inquiry of the ship chartered by the U. S. government to carry Mexican wetbacks from Fort Isabel, Tex., to Veracruz, Mexico, revealed such poor safety and sanitary conditions that the alleged rioting "was about what you would expect." The subcommittee said conditions aboard the Mercurio were like a penal "hell ship."

An Immigration Service spokesman admitted the ship made an unscheduled stop at Tampico, Mexico, and that rumors had reached here of rioting by some 500 Mexicans on board.

But he said a Mexican official telephoned the service that the Mercurio put into Tampico because one of the passengers required emergency medical treatment.

Capt. Luis G. Sevilla, chief of the port facilities at Tampico, was quoted by the spokesman as saying that "30 or 40" Mexicans jumped off the ship when she docked. But he said the Mexican official reported none of the passengers drowned "to his knowledge."

Symington Favors Jet Tanker Plan

WASHINGTON (U) — Sen. Stuart Symington, a leading critic of the administration's air power policies, today praised the Air Force decision to speed production of jet tanker planes for refueling jet bombers.

Symington made it clear he believes the Air Force action is an outgrowth of his Senate armed services subcommittee's investigation of U. S. and Russian air power.

The Air Force said increased jet tanker production will boost the long-range striking power of U. S. bombers.

Symington, vacationing in Nantucket Island, relayed this statement to the United Press:

"I am gratified with the decision as based on the facts brought out by the Senate Armed Services subcommittee on air power."

Fears Mount On Cyprus as Truce Expires

No Immediate Reports of Violence, Which Was Expected

NICOSIA, Cyprus (U) — A 10-day unofficial truce between the British government and the anti-British EOKA underground expired at midnight, leaving this Mediterranean island in a new atmosphere of apprehension.

But there were no immediate reports of violence which authorities feared would erupt as soon as the EOKA lifted its ban against extremist activity.

Security forces manned their old stations, and barbed wire barriers were restrung in the cities and towns where bomb-throwing and shooting have been common for the past 16 months.

Shortly after the deadline passed the government rushed five of the EOKA's toughest men to London under heavy guard for further questioning concerning captured documents indicating that extremists bands may have taken direct orders from Archbishop Makarios, now in exile in the Seychelle Islands.

British security forces Monday night raided the home of Nicosia Mayor Themistocles Dervis, and the municipal building, apparently in an attempt to gain more information on underground activities.

E. J. Hayes, president of the fair, said it was "easily twice as large" as any previous night grandstand show.

Grand Circuit harness racing, the finals of the national sheep dog trials and livestock judging are competing for top attention today.

Eisenhower's Nomination

As far as the Republican party is concerned, President Eisenhower's renomination for a second term was settled the moment he won in 1952 by more than 6,500,000 votes.

Not often does a party refuse
a second try to an incumbent president. It amounts to a kind of self-criticism which gives the opposition campaign fuel. In the case of a man so obviously popular as Mr. Eisenhower the decision to pick him again is virtually automatic.

It was the same with the late Franklin D. Roosevelt at Philadelphia in 1936. He was the greatest Democratic figure to appear since Woodrow Wilson. His party showed how it valued him by renomina-ting him by acclamation.

In some quarters there has been sarcastic comment about Republican claims that the conclave at San Francisco was an "open" convention. If the comment was intended to have any application to the one-sided choice of Mr. Eisenhower it is plainly foolish.

Does anyone have any doubt that the President was the overwhelming choice of that convention? That being so, there could have been no other result but to name him by acclamation, just as happened in Mr. Roosevelt's case at Philadelphia.

To put it bluntly, delegates did not have to be gagged to assure this outcome. It could only have been prevented by Mr. Eisenhower's firm withdrawal from the race.

Admittedly such automatic choosing makes a "dull show,"
but that was a foregone conclusion the moment Mr. Eisenhower said on Feb. 29 that he'd be willing to run again. To observe that what was thereafter taken for granted has now come to pass hardly qualifies as sparkling reporting.

Even if the Republicans had a stable full of men of presidential stature, Mr. Eisenhower would deserve their endorsement again on the basis of his evident high standing with the American people.

Much has been said to the effect that Republican leaders
"forced" the President to run again because they feared they'd lose in November without him.
There is a good deal of evidence,
however, that he wanted to make the race, both to advance his programs and to try to reshape
the GOP in his image.

Once he resolved the question of his physical fitness to his own satisfaction, he did not hesitate to jump into the fray.

It is abundantly clear, too, that millions of Americans—Republicans, Democrats and independents—wanted Mr. Eisenhower to seek re-election. Therefore, the thought some Republican leaders may have been serving their selfish ends when they urged him to run, they also were serving the wishes of many voters.

At Chicago the Democrats chose in Adlai Stevenson a man who fits the temperate mood of the nation. When they renamed
Mr. Eisenhower at San Francisco, the GOP selected a man who for nearly four years has been giving expression to that mood.

Unquestionably these are the choices that best suit the people,
and in that sense both conventions
did their work well. Now 50 to 60 million Americans must decide which of the two men is best qualified—by all measures—to handle their affairs in the coming four years.

Well, SOMETHING Was Open at the Convention

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Ke-faever Was Urged Not To Stay in Chicago VP Race; He Called Pep Meeting At 2 A.
M.; Texas Caucus Wasn't So Secret.

WASHINGTON. — Many inquiries have been received about the last hectic day of the Chicago convention—was it really an open race? Did the Democrats plan it that way? What really happened behind the scenes when Estes Ke-faever finally nosed out Senator
Jack Kennedy for vice president?

For sheer drama, no other political race in years has come anywhere near the Chicago wind-up. So here is the full story of that exciting photo finish:

After Adlai Stevenson notified
the convention that the choice of vice president would be wide open, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas were indignant. They had managed to keep the civil rights issue from splitting Democratic party; now they feared ballot after ballot over the vice presidency would prolong the convention, arouse bitterness. They urged Stevenson to change his mind. He refused.

Rayburn and Johnson therefore contacted the major delegations
—New York, Illinois, etc.—and arranged that each state would vote for whomever it pleased on the first ballot, then ditch favorite sons and narrow the race down to the two leading contenders.

FRANTIC NIGHT

There followed a night of frantic maneuvering. Johnson and Rayburn put in call after call trying to block Kefauver. They did not know that Kefauver almost did not run.

His top advisers, Jiggs Donohue, ex-Attorney General Howard McGrath, and Dick Wallace, went into a midnight huddle, urged Ke-faever to stay out of the race. They figured Stevenson had made a secret deal with another candidate. They knew Stevenson had told Truman that he didn't trust Kefauver.

The Tennessee senator listened patiently. Nancy, his wife, and Col. Bill Roberts, his treasurer, urged him to stay in the race. He did.

Kefauver's decision came just after 1 a. m. Within an hour, political lieutenants rounded up 700 people for a 2 a. m. rally in the Conrad Hilton hotel. Delegate after delegate bobbed up to tell how important it was to nominate "Keef."

At 3:30 a. m., a smaller group
of delegates huddled with Col.
Roberts to arrange strategy. Floor leaders were assigned to each delegation. A communications system was arranged, with Roberts in control at the Stock Yards Inn, whereby leaders could send word to pro-Kefauver men through the turmoil of the convention floor.

KENNEDY'S FATHER PHONES

Senator Kennedy was also busy through the night. His father, millionaire Joseph Patrick Kennedy, first chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, chairman of the Maritime Commission, Ambassador to England, was richly rewarded by Roosevelt, but he wavered repeatedly about supporting Roosevelt. He raised money for Joe McCarthy, huddled with Cardinal Spellman and McCarthy. The younger Kennedy, a down-the-line Democrat,
has differed with his father,
made a fine senator.
Kennedy had three separate

headquarters in Chicago, spent considerable money.

During the night, the elder Kennedy was on the trans-Atlantic phone from Nice, France. A heavy contributor to Democratic coffers, he placed a dozen calls to leaders in Chicago.

Early next morning, Senator
Albert Gore of Tennessee, encouraged by Rayburn and Johnson, asked Governor Clement of Tennessee whether he would step aside as a candidate, give Tennessee's votes to Gore. Clement hedged. Later he stepped aside.

Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota scurried for votes. His own Minnesota delegation was against him. But as the balloting started, Neil Stabler, a Michigan delegate, went to Kefauver's
headquarters at the Stock Yards Inn and proposed that Kefauver
give Humphrey the Minnesota votes as a courtesy.

Kefauver advisers were opposed. They argued it was too risky, that Humphrey might roll up too many votes on the first ballot, so many he could defeat Kefauver later. Humphrey was then considered Kefauver's No. 1 rival.

Bob Short, Kefauver leader inside the Minnesota delegation, flatly opposed any concession to Humphrey. But Kefauver ruled otherwise. So Short agreed to throw all Minnesota's thirty votes to Humphrey.

THE FIRST BALLOT

At 12 o'clock noon Kefauver had time to take a shower and change his clothes. He had been up most of the night. In a near-by room in the Stock Yards Inn, Senator Kennedy began to run the water in his bathtub. He, too, had been up most of the night.

The balloting began.
Kennedy rolled up surprising strength—304 votes. Big blocks of southern votes went for him—

Georgia, Virginia, Arkansas—
states which in 1928 attacked Al
Smith because of his religion.
Humphrey trailed with only 134½ votes. Gore polled 178; Kefauver led with 483½.

TV men arrived at Kennedy's room, found him in undershorts.
"No pictures," he said. "I think Estes is going to win anyway."

New Jersey, Texas, Tennessee,
other states streamed off the convention floor to caucus.

United Press's Pat Wiggins, who someday will be a better newsman than her daddy, editor Russ Wiggins of the Washington Post, pulled a "Drew Pearson" and got inside the secret Texas caucus.
Bill Hobby, son of Oveta Culp
Hobby of Houston, Texas, dared her to go in. Nobody recognized her. Lyndon Johnson was presiding.

Three Fliers, Girl, 3, Killed When Bomber Hits Houses in Florida

SANFORD, Fla. (AP)—Four persons, including a 3-year old girl,
were killed Monday when a Navy attack bomber trying to make a crash landing smashed into two houses and exploded.

Three of the victims were the crewmembers of the twin-engine "Savage" bomber. The other was Marilyn Sue Lowe, who was watching from her front porch when the plane roared in trailing smoke.

The pilot apparently tried to turn and avoid the houses, but hit a tree and veered into them. One house was destroyed and the other was badly burned by gasoline spewed
over a wide area.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Diefenbacher, D.D.
Written for NEA Service

Wild animals have always inspired fear in human beings. Much of this fear has been mutual. The animals probably feared men as much, if not more, than the men feared the beasts. There seems to have been a tendency on the part of both man and beast to want to kill.

The original purpose for killing animals may have been only for food, but men have developed a desire to kill as a means of pleasure. Many animals seem to have developed a special ability also to kill for reasons other than for food. They kill for self-preservation.

The human instinct or desire to hunt has lessened the animal population of the world. Governments have passed laws establishing areas for the protection of wildlife. In these preserves, where no killing is permitted, animals and people are learning to live together. This does not mean that all humans are becoming friendly, nor that all beasts have lost their fear.

Actually we mortals are not very understanding of wildlife. We do not leave the poor animals alone.
We feed them scraps of food which they should not eat. We tease them with sticks and stones, papers and rubbish. When people offer tidbits to hungry animals, it is no wonder that the animals sometimes bite the hands that hold the morsels.

When God created the world and all that exists in it. He created the means of living and letting live.
Even the animals have mutual respect for each other. Human beings must learn the simple laws
of respect which God has established.

Barbara Fearheiley Bride of Lt. James Bramlet in Fort Campbell Ceremony

Lt. and Mrs. James W. Bramlet

One of the season's most lovely brides was Miss Barbara Fearheiley whose marriage to Lt. James Wendell Bramlet was solemnized Saturday, August 18, at eight o'clock in the evening.

The double ring military ceremony was performed by Chaplain Luther G. Schliesser at Chapel No. 8 in Fort Campbell, Ky., where the bridegroom is stationed with the U. S. Army.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Fearheiley, 30 West Park, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Bramlet of 210 West Lincoln.

Baskets of white shasta daisies were placed in a background of greenery and gold candelabra held white burning tapers. The couple exchanged wedding vows beneath a white arch.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown designed with a sculptured imported chantilly lace bodice with an illusion neckline and a scalloped Queen Anne collar. Long sleeves extended to a point over the hands and self buttons swept down the back of the gown. The bouffant tulle skirt over bridal satin was fashioned with double lace panels down the front and back. She wore a tiny three strand pearl choker which was a gift of the bridegroom.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a tiny crown of lace and seed pearl. She carried a cascade of white carnations centered with a purple throated white orchid tied with lovers knots.

Mrs. Pat Gilley, close friend of the bride, was matron of honor wearing a ballerina length gown of white organdy embroidered with pink. The dress was designed with a low scoop neckline, tiny sleeves, and a full gathered skirt. Pink satin gathered sashes at the long waistline formed a large bow in back. Her headband was of pink mesh and ribbon with lily of the valley and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Bridesmaid was Mrs. J. W. Pulliam, also close friend of the bride. Her dress and headband were designed identically as that of the matron of honor only in blue and she carried a matching bouquet of blue carnations.

Jerry Bramlet, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Lt. Cloyd Beaver, close friend of the groom, was groomsman and ushers were Lt. John Thompson, Lt. Roy Creasy, Lt. Fred Boyd and Lt. Mike Delgado.

Mrs. Elvie Gidcumb of Harrisburg was soloist accompanied by the chapel organist. Selections were "Because," "O Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer" as a benediction as the couple knelt at the white satin covered altar.

Little Barbara Fearheiley, niece of the bride, was flower girl wearing a dress of embroidered blue nylon with scalloped overlay over taffeta. She sprinkled rose petals from a small white basket in the path of the bride. Her headband was of white net and lily of the valley.

After the ceremony the bride and groom descended the church steps under an arch of sabers held by the ushers.

Mrs. Fearheiley chose for her daughter's wedding a powder blue lace sheath dress with matching hat, long white gloves and accessories of black. Her flowers were white clematids orchids.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a cocoa brown dress designed on the long torso lines with a taffeta bodice and a circular tiered lace skirt with matching sequin hat and accessories. Her corsage was a yellow orchid.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the country club on the post where the table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded by shasta daisies, spider mums and greenery and flanked by candelabra. A miniature bride and soldier bridegroom with a tiny flag topped the wedding cake which was served with pink punch. The cake was cut and served by Miss Letitia

Thurman Tells of Work with Children At Grassy Camp

Little Giant Camp at Grassy Lake and what it is doing for crippled children of this area, was the subject Burdette Thurman discussed at the Rotary meeting Monday at noon. He was introduced by Louie Beltz, program chairman.

Mr. Thurman has been at this camp for the last three years, assisting with the speech and hearing therapy program and with the games and camping activities of the children.

Little Giant camp is sponsored by the Easter Seal Agency, SIU, and the Illinois Division of Services for Crippled Children. It was started six years ago with 16 children and has grown until it now has a seven-week program with 120 children each week in attendance, 110 being crippled children.

The rest of the children, who are not crippled, are kept at the neighboring Little Grassy Camp.

Hikes, swimming, games, archery, and visits to the county fairs are some of the things the children may do. The games are modified for the crippled children at Little Giant Camp to allow them to take part in the activities.

Mr. Thurman said, that every effort is made to get the crippled children to do everything they can for themselves. Many have done things they thought wasn't possible for them to do, and have been greatly benefited by this program.

President Lowden Pankey announced at the meeting that ten Rotarians gave blood to the Bloodmobile and accounted for one-tenth of the total 97 pints received.

The bride graduated from the Harrisburg Township high school with the class of 1953 and was employed as secretary at The Daily Register prior to her marriage.

Mr. Bramlet is also a graduate of HTHS, attended the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va., and is now a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army stationed with the 101st Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky. They are now at home at 1304 D Cherry street, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wynn, Oak Ridge, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Mays, Bloomington, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Byrd McFarland, Allendale, Mrs. Bernard McFarland, Allendale, and numerous friends and relatives from Harrisburg.

Prior to the wedding the wedding party and special guests were entertained with a dinner at 6 p. m. at the officers' club.

Nurse Who Roughed Babies is 6 Footer

noticed a fleck of blood in one of the child's nostrils, and called the doctor.

The child was rushed to a hospital where she died about 4 a. m. from severe head and body injuries.

Dr. Sterling P. Taylor, acting medical examiner, notified Coroner James J. Corrigan that death was suspicious and New Haven police moved into the case.

They checked into the nurse's background and found that two other babies under her care had died and that two others had received injuries. They called the nurse in for questioning and she admitted that she had shaken the Kapsinow baby and four others.

Miss Jaspers said she shook the Kapsinow baby when the infant refused to take her bottle. She said she took hold of the child with both hands, pressed both thumbs into the infant's chest and shook her violently. The nurse was alone with the baby at the time.

She said she didn't want to harm the babies but said she would lose patience with the infants and shake or squeeze them.

Tours States Trying to Get Indians to Vote

By HERB SURRETT
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN CARLOS, Ariz. (U.P.)—An Arizona Indian leader is on the war path—against his own people.

Clarence Wesley, outspoken member of the San Carlos Apache Indian tribe, has toured every Indian reservation in the state to rouse Indians to their duty to vote this fall.

In an attempt to stimulate Indian interest in the election campaigns, the chairman of the Arizona Intertribal Council has distributed posters stressing the importance of voting and literature on how to go about it. In addition, he has urged leaders of each tribe to join him in the project.

Wesley said the campaign, if successful, could have a definite effect on this and future elections.

The goal Wesley has set for himself is not an easy one. Chief obstacle is the high percentage of illiteracy among adult members of all the tribes. The younger generation is growing up well-educated, but many of the oldtimers still cannot read and write because they have never had the opportunity to learn.

But Wesley figures there still are about 44,000 Indians in Arizona who could qualify to vote if they would only take an interest.

The Real Issues
"We could be a potent force in Arizona elections if we would all turn out and vote," he said. "We hope this voter education drive will help do the trick."

The campaign to dig up the Indian vote is not confined to Arizona. Indian leaders throughout the Southwest are aware of the need for an "Indian vote," especially in state and national legislative contests.

In a recent open letter, Wesley said that the public—including public officials—generally doesn't know what the Indian issues really are.

They are not "assimilation," or "integration," or "emancipation," or "government control over the Indian person," or "civil rights" in the usual sense of the words, he said.

"The real issues are continuing ownership of land; development of human and natural resources; protection of rights solemnly promised by treaty and law; honor in government dealing with conquered peoples; our 'day in court' on our claims; real opportunity for education of the same quality as is available to non-Indian citizens; adequate federal assistance in reservation development; and a need for a constant federal policy of minimum interference and maximum assistance to us to help ourselves."

The Indian leader believes his people will be able better to gain an honored place in society through exercise of the right to vote.

The Blonde Cried MURDER

XXVII

11:27 P. M.

There was an air of elegance, a feeling of almost oppressive luxury about the huge lobby of the Roney Plaza Hotel on Miami Beach. At this hour of night and before the winter season had officially opened, the lobby was none-the-less quite well filled with gay couples in evening dress, coming and going from the bank of elevators to the cocktail and dining rooms where late supper was being served and dancing was in progress.

Michael Shayne made his way among the milling guests to the wide expanse of desk where two clerks were still on duty.

One clerk, a tall, lean, middle-aged man with a thin black mustache and a pained expression, turned his tired eyes on Shayne and lifted his upper lip a quarter of an inch in what was supposed to pass for a smile, and inquired, "And what can I do for you, sir?"

"Do you have a Barnes registered?" Charles Barnes from New York.

"If you'd care to inquire at the house telephone, sir?" The clerk flipped a white hand toward a row of phones at Shayne's right.

The detective started to protest but, realizing he'd get faster results by observing protocol, went to one of the phones and asked the same question.

A pleasant female voice repeated the name and said almost immediately, "Twelve-ten. Would you like me to ring them?"

Shayne said, "Please." He let the phone ring six times before replacing it.

He returned to the desk and said, "Barnes in 1210? Can you tell me anything about him?"

The eyebrow-like mustache lifted superciliously. "I'm sure I don't know. If the telephone doesn't answer—"

Again, Shayne hesitated, and again he turned away with a slight shrug. He stepped back from the desk and lit a cigaret, looking around the lobby carefully.

He spotted a youngish man wearing a double-breasted blue serge suit leaning negligently against one of the pillars and apparently completely disinterested in everything that was going on about him.

Shayne threaded his way to him and asked, "Is Jimmie Curtis still in charge of Security?"

The young man looked at him stonily for a moment, then his face relaxed in a pleased smile. "You're

Mike Shayne, aren't you?"

"That's right. Jimmie around?"

"He's not here any longer. Hasn't been for months. Mr. Gerdon took his place."

"And where," asked Shayne, "can I find Mr. Gerdon?"

"I'll take you to his office." The young man detached himself from the pillar and to Shayne's faint surprise it remained standing. He led him beyond the desk into a corridor, around a corner and down another with closed office doors on both sides.

He stopped near the end at a door marked "Private," knocked and then opened the door. He stepped inside and said smartly, "Mr. Gerdon. This is Mr. Shayne from Miami."

Shayne followed him into a large room with a very thick carpet on the floor. A totally bald man with sunken cheeks and slightly protruding eyes sat behind a highly polished mahogany desk.

He said, "Shayne?" and rose slowly as his bulging eyes studied the rangy detective from across the bay. He nodded and said, "All right, Rawson," and held a hand out to Shayne without noticeable cordiality.

"Heard a lot about you, of course. Is this social or business?" "Business," Shayne sat in the chair he indicated. "A man named Barnes in 1210?"

"No trouble, I hope," Gerdon turned his swivel chair to a card filing cabinet and drew out a long drawer. He flipped through the cards and withdrew one, placed it on the desk in front of him.

Shayne said, "I'll know better when you give me the dope."

"Mr. and Miss Barnes from New York. Brother and sister. Twelve-ten is a two-bedroom suite," Gerdon explained. He read the New York address on East 63rd Street.

"Credit rating A-1. They checked in 16 days ago. Everything regular. Paid the first week's bill with a New York check that cleared."

He looked up with a frown. "What are their first names?"

"Charles and Mary."

"Anything else on the card?"

"No notations. That means run-of-the-mill as far as observations go."

Shayne said, "Can you get someone in who can describe them both to me?"

Gerdon hesitated. "If you'd tell me what you have in mind—"

Shayne said, "A man carrying Charles Barnes's wallet was pulled out of the bay tonight. Dead. First time I knew he had a sister." His gaze was withdrawn, his voice speculative.

Gerdon sucked in his lips. He pressed a button on his desk, leaned forward to speak in a low tone into a small microphone on a stand in front of him on the polished mahogany. Then he leaned back and said, "We'll have the room-maid in. And the night-boy who serves that floor. Dead, eh? An accident?"

Shayne shook his head. "Murder."

Family Automobile Policy Coming Out, Underwriters State

The "family automobile policy," a new insurance contract designed exclusively to insure the family car, will be introduced to motorists September 1, the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and National Automobile Underwriters Association announced on behalf of their member and subscriber companies.

Millions of car owners will be eligible for this new policy which will be offered to the motoring public by companies affiliated with the two insurance rating organizations.

The new policy will afford car owners all the bodily injury and property damage liability, medical payments and physical damage insurance protection presently afforded for private passenger cars under the standard basic automobile liability and physical damage policies and in addition it will afford, without any increase in rates, insurance coverage not provided under the present basic policies, according to the rating organizations.

"Any private passenger, station wagon or jeep type automobile owned by an individual or by husband and wife will be eligible for insurance under the new policy," the two rating organizations stated.

Also eligible will be any automobile with a load capacity of 1,500 pounds or less of the pick-up body, sedan delivery or panel truck type owned by an individual or by husband and wife, these vehicles being defined in the new policy as 'utility' vehicles."

Air compression for airplane cockpits becomes impractical at 80,000 feet. The machinery required becomes too large and generates too much heat.

Bessent Does Great Job In Relief as Dodgers Beat Leading Braves 6-3

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

Back on the Braves' heels again, because skinny Don Bessent pitched like Clem Labine at his greatest, the Brooklyn Dodgers set sail today into a schedule of 16 straight games against second-division teams with their pennant hopes flying higher than ever.

Bessent, who took over as the Dodgers' No. 1 artist when ace Labine broke a bone in his wrist last week, blanked the Braves for four innings Monday to get credit for a clutch 6-3 victory. He now has pitched 25 straight shutout innings.

It was the Dodgers' "biggest" win so far this year, for it put them back two games behind Milwaukee with a split of their two-game series.

Now, only one game behind in the vital "lost" column, the Dodgers feel the schedule favors them in the run to the wire. Here's why: Of the 33 games they have left, a whopping 27 are against second-division teams and only six against top teams. By contrast, the Braves play first-division teams in 14 of 31 games, and third-place Cincinnati meets the leaders 14 times in 29 games.

Allows Only One Hit

What's more, Brooklyn is the only contender with more home games left than road games. They play 20 of their remaining 33 at cramped but cozy Ebbets Field where they hit so many homers. The Braves have 14 home games left, the Redlegs only 10.

Thin, pale-faced Bessent, gaining his first victory of the year in relief of staff ace Don Newcombe, allowed just one hit in four frames and was boosted to victory by two key plays.

Pitcher Gene Conley of the Braves made the first play. With runners on first and third in the top of the eighth and the score tied, 3-3, he fielded Carl Furillo's one-bouncer and chose to throw to the plate instead of trying for a double play. Before baserunner Jim Gilliam was tagged out in a rundown, the Dodgers had runners at second and third.

That set up the second play. Jackie Robinson was purposely passed to pitch to Campanella. Campanella singled to score all three runners, Robinson coming all the way home from first when the outfield relay was slow.

Snider Cracks 35th

That gave Brooklyn a 6-3 lead and Bessent kept the Braves at bay.

The Braves had built up a 3-0 lead against Newcombe on Joe Adcock's solo homer in the second and Bobby Thomson's two-run homer in the fourth. Duke Snider of the Dodgers cracked his 35th homer with a man on in the sixth and the Dodgers tied the score in the seventh when Robinson doubled and Sandy Amoros singled.

Conley explained his decision to throw home: "I was told to watch home."

The only other major-league action Monday saw Chico Carrasquel drive in three runs with a pair of homers to lead Cleveland to a 5-2 victory in a night game at Washington, thus moving the second-place Indians within seven games of the first-place New York Yankees in the American League. Rocky Colavito also homered for the Tribe as pitcher Bob Lemon tossed an eight-hitter, gained his 17th victory and the 198th of his career.

Only 23 Out For Bull Dog Varsity Team

Seven Are Letter Men; Especially Weak at Tackles

A meager 23 varsity candidates including seven lettermen, greeted head coach Lawrence Caluffetti yesterday at the opening football practice of the season, with 60 boys turning out as frosh-soph candidates.

Caluffetti began the task early yesterday morning of teaching blocking and tackling fundamentals to the boys, many of them inexperienced, and will hold two practice sessions a day until school, when only one will be held.

The seven lettermen returning this year are: Bill Henshaw, end; Benny Fulkerson, end; Lou Williams, guard; Ronnie Vick, center; Donald Biggs, halfback; Trevor Whiteside, halfback; and John Ziegler, fullback. Jim Cummins, another letterman, was scheduled to have his hip examined in St. Louis today. He suffered an infection in his hip last winter.

Prospects coming up from the freshman-sophomore team of last year, which had a 6-2-1 record include: Bill Yates, end; Ray Hassett, tackle; Ed Price, fullback; Bob Clark, quarterback; Micky Stone, halfback; Gary Aldridge, guard; Ira Logan, end; Jack Simpson, center, and Philip Foster, tackle.

"I lost 17 lettermen from last year," Caluffetti said, "and you don't replace guys like Beal, etc., in one year. This is also the smallest team I've had since I've been here. The boys are young and inexperienced, but they're in good spirits, and willing to work."

"I'm hoping some of my juniors will come through," the coach said. "If they do, I may shift some of the experienced boys to my weak positions, such as tackle."

Stars Defeat Stripes 9-5 in Benefit Game

By DAVID NELSON

The Stars beat the Stripes, 9-5, in a Three-I league all-star game played Monday night at the VFW park. It was a benefit contest for Joe Carnett and a nice crowd was on hand to turn in a good collection for the injured Kiwanis league player.

The Stripes outthit the Stars, 7 to 6, but several errors and sloppy play on the part of the losers made the difference. Woolard started on the mound for the Stars and gave up three runs on four hits in the five innings he pitched. Boyett came in as a reliever and gave up two runs on three hits in his two-inning stint.

Agin was the starter for the Stripes and allowed six runs on four hits in the first three innings. Hefner then came in and pitched outstanding relief ball as he gave up three runs on two hits in the final four innings of the game.

For the winners at the plate, Stricklin, Pickford, Furlong, Roper, Biggs and Woolard all hit safely once. Wasson led the losers' attack with two singles and Hicks, Feazel, Maynard, Hefner and Nelson picked up single safeties.

In other games Monday, Raleigh shut out the Pirates, 9-0, and Sugar Creek downed Ridgway, 9-5.

Eldorado Nine Drubs Cardinals Of Uniontown

The Eldorado Merchants gave their bats a workout Sunday afternoon when they pounded out a 26-3 victory over the visiting Uniontown Colored Cardinals.

Uniontown, considered one of the top clubs in the tri-state area, was handicapped for the game by the absence of several regulars, and the patched up roster was no match for the Eldorado team.

The Merchants banged out 27 hits and also received the benefit of several bases on balls and errors by Uniontown.

Sandusky, on the mound for Eldorado, allowed only eight hits. Vineyard was his receiver.

Soaper, Cline and Bumpus hurried for the visitors and Cline and Yeager did the catching duties. Pulliam and Sandusky hit back-to-back home runs in the 6th inning. Eldorado's attack was headed by Dorris with 6 for 6. Beasley had four blows. Sisky, Vineyard and Mickey Stone each collected three. Pulliam, G. Stone, Eubanks and Sandusky each came up with two safe blows.

Next Sunday Eldorado will be at home to the Cartersville Stars. The Merchants will hold a practice session Friday at 5:30 p. m.

Lloyd's Has Million on Nashua, But Won't Take $2 Bet on Him

By JIMMY BRESLIN

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Lloyd's of London has the perfect disposition for a horse player. They don't mind losing.

When Nashua came down with his latest colossal stomach ache up at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Lloyd's found itself holding what constitutes a $1,251,000 bet. That's the amount Nashua is insured for with the British firm.

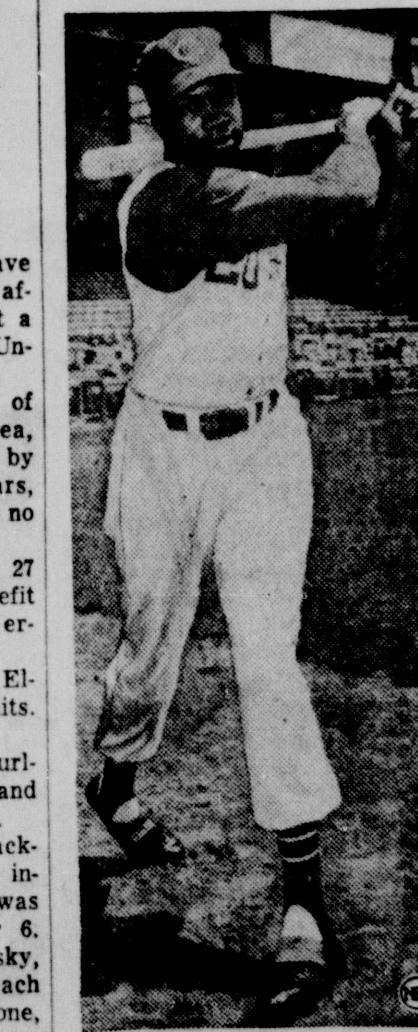

But instead of getting into a dither over the situation, Lloyd's took it calmly, from all indications. Not one trans-Atlantic phone call was made. Nobody in the firm's New York adjustment office seemed overly worried about the situation. With seven figures riding on Nashua's health, Lloyd's handled the proposition the same way a bookmaker does a parlay: worry about paying off when the results are in.

"This is strictly an insurance matter and as a rule we keep these things confidential," noted Walter Lenox, a member of a New York adjustment firm which handles Lloyd's accounts. "I'm not a horse expert, but from what I hear and read, the horse seems okay. It is merely business and we don't inject anything like worry into it."

The insurance policy on Nashua reads quite simply. "The animal is insured in event of death and/or accident necessitating destruction," is the wording. Leslie Combs II placed the policy after a syndicate bought the horse from the estate of the late William Woodward Jr. He insured Nashua for the full price of his purchase—and, since he is an in-

NEW YORK — G-men and police poised today to crack the Victor Riesel acid blinding case "wide open" with the arrest of the mobsters who masterminded the April 5 attack.

U. S. Attorney Paul Williams promised to crack the case this week.

Williams disclosed Monday that federal authorities know the identities of the "higher ups" who ordered the underworld assault in an attempt to silence the columnist.

Police sources reported Monday night that two witnesses have "spilled their insides" to the special federal grand jury investigating the attack. Other "new" witnesses were scheduled for secret testimony today.

The grand jury disclosures were made as dozens of FBI agents and COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — Insurgents bolted from the South Carolina Democratic Party and today set out to get an independent slate of electors on the November general election ballot.

Some 50 delegates who objected to a unity stand adopted by the state Democratic convention Monday met afterward in a secret night session and decided to split from the party. They said they would announce their slate of electors today.

The insurgents, calling themselves "South Carolinians for independent electors," have the seemingly impossible task of obtaining 10,000 signatures in 11 days on a petition for a spot on the ballot.

Mahoney defeated Mrs. Eleanor Tydings, the former senator's wife, for the nomination by a vote of 97 to 55 Monday night in the Democratic Maryland Central Committee.

Dick and Estes Live Just Blocks Away But There's No Politics in This Suburb

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) —
The hot vice presidential campaign this year has the potential of spawning a real neighborhood rhubarb.

The Richard Nixons live a few blocks away from the Estes Kefauvers in Spring Valley, a good suburb in the northwest section of the District of Columbia.

However, there isn't the slightest chance that the bitter charges and counter-charges which are sure to characterize the vice presidential race this year will intrude into the quiet, family life of Spring Valley.

Pat Nixon and Nancy Kefauver, good friends, by the way, will see to it that this will not happen. They both have a fetish about keeping anything that smacks of politics out of family affairs.

If Richard Nixon is a controversial figure in national politics Pat Nixon is the absolute opposite in Spring Valley.

She is the most wonderful mother and neighbor you can find anywhere, and how she manages it with all of the things she has to do is a mystery to me," says a neighbor.

"If anybody's looking for a word of criticism of Pat they're wasting their time ringing doorbells in this neighborhood," this woman insists heatedly.

It so happens that the husband of the women who thus evaluates Pat Nixon is a former top official of the Truman administration. The GOP Vice President has named him specifically in various critical speeches.

* * *

But if there is any rancor against the Nixon name in that household it's not associated in any way with Pat.

Down the block from the Nixon home an eight-year-old son of a Navy officer insists: "If you're talking about Julie's mother all I know is that she's got the best bread and butter around here."

Julie is the Nixons' eight-year-old daughter. Young Patty Nixon is 10, and naturally travels in a more mature set. But friends of Patty have the same reaction to Mrs. Nixon.

"Gosh, she's so pleasant and nice to all of the kids that it's hard to believe she's the wife of the Vice President of the United States," says a playmate, implying no criticism of the V. P. in that remark.

Although only a handful of the Nixon neighbors have ever met the Vice President, all of them within at least a 10-house range are on a first-name basis or have a waving acquaintance with Mrs. Nixon.

"We all know how terribly busy she is but she always has time to call if someone is sick or say hello when she sees you," says still another neighbor.

One woman who has children and lives near by, but who has never met Pat formally, ran into the Vice President's wife in the suburban branch of a department store. Pat greeted her by her first name, suggested they shop together and then drove her home.

The consensus of the mothers and children around the Nixons is that Pat has brought up the two girls very well.

"There are not two more well-mannered, unspoiled children around than Patty and Julie," a mother insists. And neighborhood mothers are the severest critics there are.

This sentiment also applies to the famed Nixon dog, Checkers. She has the run of the neighborhood and used to chase cars. But

LONDON (AP) — The next time Esther Williams asks a London policeman to kiss her the answer is expected to be a flat "no."

A disciplinary board fined an unidentified policeman two pounds ($5.60) for kissing the swim star and said cops must "comport themselves with dignity."

The kissing scene took place at a gala premier at a London movie house. Esther asked the cop to kiss her for the benefit of photographers.

Her husband, Ben Gage, offered to pay the fine.
